An example of what I would like it to look like is: I want it to work like how I make API calls to another python function that accept parameters. So I was wondering if this is something that I have to do in my function or if I can do this with routing. Update I've started coding a very basic API to test my understanding of routing but I'm getting 404 errors. I'm not too sure what else to post so if you'd like to see any part of the code that is relevant I'd be happy to post it. A: you can use just route to match urls and get params from flask import Flask from flask import route app = Flask(__name__) app.config['DEBUG'] = True @app.route('/api') def get_url(): user = 'Bob' pass = 'test' print(user, pass) return "Hello World" if __name__ == '__main__': app.run(host='0.0.0.0', c9d1549cdd

A Day in the Life of a Shark Tank Investor. by: Jim Davidson I'm here with Bill Byrnes, managing partner of the Byrnes Group. He is an entrepreneur, active investor and businessman. He has also worked as a municipal court judge in the public sector, providing a judicial perspective on starting and running a business. Byrnes, what are you doing today? Byrnes: I'm in my office, just sitting here watching the market go up, I suppose. Jim: That's great. The market today is 25 percent higher than the opening mark. Byrnes: That's good. But it's been a sustained move for a couple of days. The good old fed has got something going, but you know, anytime the fed sells stocks, you've got to take it in the right direction. I'm not a democrat or a republic. I have to live in the world. I live in the real world, Jim. Jim: How much of your time do you spend in New York? How much do you spend in Los Angeles and the Byrnes Group? Byrnes: I spend time at my office here in New York, but basically Los Angeles is my life. Jim: That's great. What kind of work are you doing at the Byrnes Group? Byrnes: Well I think I'd like to find a way to make a living doing this, so I suppose you could say I've got a job, but I guess you could say I'm still working my way through grad school. Jim: Are you going to have a doctoral degree? Byrnes: I

Hall The Lactea Volleyball Hall () is a multipurpose indoor athletics arena and a multi-purpose sports and entertainment hall located in the Ube Sports Park, Ube, Laguna, Philippines. Constructed at a cost of ₱98.3 million by the Ube Olympians Development Foundation with the assistance of Michael Gross and the Chris Perez Family Fund Inc., it is one of the the world's most modern indoor arenas, accommodating approximately 4,000-5,000 people for concerts. It is also the home of the popular Liga Pilipinas Basketball Association (LPBA) clubs and serves as a training facility for the national men's volleyball team of the Philippines. The venue was originally conceptualized in 2013 as the place to host the regional and international volleyball tournaments of the 2016 Summer Olympics, officially designated as the Olympic Volleyball Venue Ube 16, but they struggled to make the tournament a reality. The hall is also a part of the infrastructure development in Ube initiated by the Ube Olympians Development Foundation in 2012, funded by the Limited Liability Partnership (LLP) of Michael Gross and the Chris Perez Family Fund. The venue came into being under development during the term of Ube City Mayor Godfrey Tabanera Sr. From its completion on December 2017, it became a full-time sports and entertainment venue with the arena becoming a temporary home of the volleyball tournament. As of 2019, the largest completed capacity of the venue is 4,000 but is also adjusted to fit more as 6,000. It accommodates exhibitions and various other events/functions at multi-usage. Construction of the venue was delayed due to quality concerns of the structural system that was eventually decided to be the steel frame roof system created by Sunstone Consultancy and Manufacturers Co., a unit of Global Steel Group. The facility has hosted several events including concerts, basketball games, athletics competitions, judo matches, boxing matches and exhibitions of Philippine Basketball Association (PBA) and LPBA teams. History In 2016, the Ube Olympians Development Foundation (now Ube Olympians Development Foundation Inc.) embarked on a project to build a basketball, volleyball and softball compound in the Ube Sports Park for the 2016 Summer Olympics bid. The Ube Olympians Development Foundation's proposal was included in the recommendation of the Sports and Games Priorities Implementation Plan for the 2016 Olympic Games and served as part of the vision of the Philippine Sports Commission under its Olympic Agenda 2020 project.
